Arizona Department of Child Safety Update

- Colleen McNally, Co-Chair, introduced Deputy Director David Lujan to update the Council on the Arizona Department of Child Safety (DCS)'s goals, priorities, and objectives.
 - The DCS has received the fewest calls/referrals since the department's inception, as reported by the Arizona Ombudsman Office.
 - The number of children in foster care is expected to drop to below 8,000 by the end of the 2024 calendar year.
 - The Department has seen the population getting older, and older teens face complex challenges. Below are the complex needs children in care are facing and the strategies the Department is utilizing to reduce the group home population:
 - Complex needs:
 - The DCS sees many cross-over youth and children in the Child Welfare and Juvenile Corrections Systems. In 2018, the Department implemented the Cross-Over Youth Model to ensure youths get the needed services. Currently, the Department is meeting county-by-county to support this model and its implementation.
 - The DCS also sees many youths with complex medical needs. Finding placements for these children can be challenging. The Department is meeting with the Arizona Health Care Cost Containment System \(AHCCCS\) to improve its services for children in care with complex health needs, including behavioral health needs.
 - Strategies:
 - Increase the number of kinship providers and community foster families.
 - The DCS is developing tiered registry levels and aiming to implement them by September 2025. It also hopes to make retroactive adjustments, although this is not guaranteed.
 - Pastor Terry Crist asked approximately how many people are on the registry.
 - Deputy Director Lujan answered that there are approximately 100,000 people on the registry.
 - Leah Landrum Taylor stated that because of the overrepresentation of African American youth, she thanked the Department and Deputy Director Lujan's leadership for working with the Arizona Commission on African American Affairs to come up with ways to lessen the number of children in care.
 - Marie Fordney expressed relief at the decreasing number of children in care and inquired about the Department's measures to ensure ongoing investigations when necessary.
 - Deputy Director Lujan responded that the Department looks at the data when making policies to keep children safe. Specifically, they look at the number of cases within a 12-month and if there are repeat cases after a report. Since implementing the new policies, they have not seen a spike in repeat cases.
 - Deputy Director Lujan also mentioned that staff utilize the SAFE AZ model and that the Department is trying to keep caseloads low.
 - Paul Mulligan referenced an article that mentions the rates of foster children not attending school.
 - Deputy Director Lujan answered that, from his memory, the Department hasn't seen a high number of absentees in foster care; however, he will look into it further.

Family Resource Center Findings

- Colleen McNally, Co-Chair, introduced Claire Louge to present the Family Resource Center (FRC) findings following the Landscape Study's completion earlier this year.
 - Claire Louge is the Executive Director of Prevent Child Abuse Arizona \(PCAAZ\), a statewide nonprofit that protects children by strengthening families. She earned her Bachelor's degree from Cornell University and her Master's of Education from Northern Arizona University (NAU). She is a member of Together for Arizona and is involved in Arizona's Thriving Families Safer Children initiative, which addresses racial disparities in the child protection system for African Americans. Claire Louge co-authored Flourishing Families, an activity-based curriculum designed for professionals to teach families how to build protective factors in their lives. She is a Flinn Brown Fellow, an American Express Nonprofit Leadership Academy graduate, a Leading for Change Fellow, and an AmeriCorps Volunteer In Service To America (VISTA) alum. In her free time, Ms. Louge organizes theatrical role-play adventure events for teens in partnership with youth-serving organizations. She is also the mother of an active two-year-old daughter named Kira.
- Claire Louge started her presentation by explaining that PCAAZ's primary goal is to create a statewide family support system. By keeping children safe, you strengthen families. The organization's vision is for families to have what they need when they need it. She discussed the problems PCAAZ is trying to solve through supporting FRCs:
 - Families are overwhelmed and under-resourced.
 - Providers don't know where to refer families.
 - Families don't know where to access resources.
 - Over-reliance on the Arizona Department of Child Safety.
 - Isolated attempts to coordinate.
 - Inefficient dissemination of resources to those in need.
- Claire Louge explained that the solution to the problems above is to establish a "hub and spoke" statewide family support system based on FRCs. These community hubs allow families to access formal and informal support during times of need and daily life.
 - Four eligibility criteria to be an FRC:
 - Place-based (needs a physical location).
 - Offer information, resources, and referrals.
 - Offer parenting support.
 - Provide opportunities for families to build social connections.
 - Why focus on FRCs?
 - FRCs are hubs, simplifying resource navigation.
 - FRCs are community-based and responsive to the needs of families.
 - FRCs have universal designs because every family needs support sometimes.
 - FRCs operate using the Strengthening Families™ Protective Factors Framework, helping to strengthen families, provide optimal child development, and reduce the likelihood of abuse and neglect.
 - What outcomes do FRCs achieve?
 - Social return on investment for every dollar invested: $4.93
 - Savings for the child welfare system for every dollar invested: $3.65
 - Reduction in child abuse cases: 63%
 - Reduction of out-of-home placements of children in foster care: 50%
 - The reduction rate of community-level child abuse investigations: 26%
 - Impact
 - First Things First invests $9 million to support 48 FRCs.
 - In fiscal year (FY) 2024, these FRCs served 21,325 families.
 - Findings:
 - Increase in parental resilience by 64%.
 - Increase in social connectedness by 60%.
- Claire Louge stated that the Arizona Family Resource Network \(AZFRN\) and the FRC Pathway help support and uplift FRCs.
 - The AZFRN's mission is to strengthen and connect FRCs to support Arizona families.

- The FRC Pathway's primary goal is to develop a robust, comprehensive, and sustainable system of FRCs across the state, accessible to all families with children aged 0-17.
- Claire Louge explained that the Landscape Study and interviews outlined six strategies that the State of Arizona can implement to support FRCs.
 - Strategy 1: Identify What We Have.
 - Strategy 2: Identify What We Need.
 - Strategy 3: Raise Awareness of FRCs.
 - Strategy 4: Identify sources of funding to build FRC capacity.
 - Strategy 5: Support and expand AZFRN.
 - Strategy 6: Explore connections to other initiatives and strategies.
- Claire Louge stated individuals can help by contributing to an FRC's wish list, sponsoring the AZFRN Conference, and connecting with their local FRC before discussing recommendations from the Landscape Study:
 - Develop FRCs in rural counties (see slide 15 for the current distribution spread across the state).
 - Expand FRCs to serve all ages.
 - Advocate and raise awareness.
 - Create a website locating FRCs.
 - Create an FRC Wish List site.
 - Add FRC site to Mandated Reporter Training.
 - Continue to support AZFRN.
- Deputy Director Lujan inquired about the gaps in services after completing the study based on the services the FRCs reported.
 - Claire Louge responded that First Things First primarily funds almost all of the FRCs in the state. However, these funds cannot be used for children 0-5, creating gaps in service.
- Berisha Black stated that Pilgrim Rest Baptist Church is officially an FRC serving 200 families weekly. They have assisted seniors, refugees, former foster youth, and families suffering from housing concerns.
